Answer Key

Birak

Southerly winds start to blow and parrots feed on banksia flowers.

Bunuru

Hot morning east wind and cold evening ocean wind mean its time to relax in the shade during the day.

Djeran

Waterholes and wetlands dry up and salmon swim north as the sea cools down.

Makuru

Magpies, kangaroos and possums protect their young and the dark emu is in the sky.

Djilba

Wildflowers blossom and snakes leave tracks in the sand.

Kambarang

Rain refills creeks and rivers, whales migrate and swans nest.

Understands that the seasons used by Aboriginal people are different to those used in Western society.
