

Inside the back cover of Cicada there is a translated Japanese haiku poem about a cicada. A Haiku poem is an old form of Japanese poetry written in three short lines. Theses 3 lines try to capture a feeling or an image using a 5.7.5 structure. The first line has 5 syllables, the second line has 7 syllables and the final line has 5 syllable again.

Here are two examples of haiku poems from Matsuo Basho (1644-1694) who is considered to be one the greatest haiku poets:

An old silent pond... A frog jumps into the pond, splash! Silence again.

Autumn moonlighta worm digs silently into the chestnut.
